

White British by Postcode Sector

- Minority
- Majority

Diversity in North London at postcode level

- high - above 0.85
- medium - 0.80 to 0.85
- low - below 0.75

Walthamstow

Stoke Newington

Highgate

Is the whole of London a “melting pot”?

- This map shows where in London you would find “melting pot” neighbourhoods.
- These are communities which are home to many different non-white communities and where no individual community is over-dominant
- The melting pot streets are coloured orange. Where there is risk of people living parallel lives, the street is marked in green. The Jewish community of Stamford Hill stands out as an island of green in a melting pot of orange
- Local Councils have more difficulty identifying community leaders in the orange areas and in finding solutions to problems that are supported by all different groups within the community
- The data is presented at postcode level